Letter of support to the project SERF

To whom it may concern,

On behalf of Jelgava city municipality institution “Jelgava Municipality Operative Information Centre”, I confirm that the project SERF would be suitable for application of its results in policy planning and development of disaster risk reduction strategies with consideration of climate adaptation issues on local level. The assessment tools and platform enabling evaluation of disaster risk strategies in context of climate adaptation and sustainability in the urban context will be a valuable asset for municipality decision-makers and planners dealing with flood risk reduction.

SERF project proposal will be applied for Latvian Council of Science call for Fundamental and Applied Projects 2019 with number Nr. lzp-2019/1-0348 un the science field of Environmental Engineering.

We will be pleased to support the project consortium with our feedbacks in terms of interviews and towards the validation and potential testing of the main outcomes and tools developed by project scientific group.
